Local business success at RHS Chelsea Flower Show 2009

HSP Garden Buildings from Mildenhall enjoyed great success at this years RHS Chelsea Flower Show. One visitor in particular Laurence Llewelyn-Bowen accompanied by his wife Jackie, took such a shine to the HSP buildings that they ordered not just one but three different styled buildings for their own garden.

The Potting Shed shown here was one that will soon be installed for them.

Classic style and the finest in quality craftsmanship are the trademarks of garden building specialist HSP Garden Buildings. Charming summerhouses, pavilions, arbours and gazebo's of every size and shape continue to delight all who own them. Meticulous attention to detail along with the opportunity to colour match your structure to any colour you choose, ensures your building is personalised to your exact style and taste.

Jamie Townson, Managing Director at HSP was amazed with the amount of interest shown at this year's show: "We have been at Chelsea for several years now and were unsure with the current economic climate on how well the show would be attended. The number of visitors was just as good as previous years, and we were delighted with the results. Having high profile celebrities as customers is always the icing on the cake."

HSP buildings help create the ideal place to enjoy long summer days in a shady corner and the perfect structures in which to relax after a hard days gardening.
